Talk Changes: Ike Now Said Ready To Run

Optimistic Reports By Heart Specialist Leads To New Thinking

WASHINGTON (AP) — Optimistic reports from his heart specialist over the weekend has brought a change in thinking about a second term for President Eisenhower, according to two of the nation's major newspapers.

The New York Times said today that top leaders of both Republican and Democratic parties now believe Eisenhower will seek another four-year term in the White House.

At the same time, the Chicago Tribune reported that if Eisenhower remains silent on his plans until Feb. 15, it will be a signal that he will be the GOP standard-bearer again.

The President, himself, heartened by latest reports from his doctors, maintains an easygoing schedule today while winding up his final 1955 visit to his Gettysburg farm.

He had a date with Chairman Lewis Strauss of the Atomic Energy Commission at the family farm home here, but Presidential Press Secretary James C. Hagerly said it was principally a "social visit" with a few official items thrown in.

TOMORROW, the President probably will drive in to his office in the Gettysburg postoffice to confer with Dillon Anderson, his special assistant for national security matters.

Otherwise his Gettysburg schedule is free of official callers. He will confine his duties to telephone consultations and dictation of mail.

He goes back to Washington Wednesday to spend Christmas with Mrs. Eisenhower, their son

Westinghouse, Union Call For Confab

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Negotiators for Westinghouse Electric Corp. and the striking International Union of Electrical Workers called another bargaining session today while the company rushed plans to lend $100 to any striker to tide him over Christmas.

The union, which has neither endorsed nor rejected the loan plan, is letting local unions decide whether they'll permit the strikers to cross picket lines to pick up the checks.

The company is setting up plans to pay out the money inside the plants, saying it is "not practical" to do so anywhere else.

Westinghouse said any employee who has lost 30 days' consecutive work qualifies for the loans. About 44,000 members of the IUE have been striking since Oct. 17 in a bitter contract dispute. Approximately 10,500 members of the Independent United Electrical Workers struck Westinghouse Oct. 25 in a similar dispute.

Charles Clark, president of Local 746 of the IUE in Columbus said:

"Every employee who needs it (the loan) should not hesitate to get it even though the company makes the unfair condition (crossing picket lines) that they enter the plant to do so."

In Trenton, N.J., a spokesman for the 750 member Local 449 said union leaders had tentatively accepted the offer.

Thoughts at Christmas

By DR. FREDERICK BROWN HARRIS

Chaplain, United States Senate

EVERYTHING for which democracy stands is based on religious faith. Its so-called "rights" are not granted by any government. They are inalienable because they are given by the Creator.

President Eisenhower goes to the root of the matter when he declares that our democracy "does not make sense without religion."

Certainly, George Washington is no sanctimonious saint, interred in a sarcophagus of suffocating virtues. Yet in the most searching of all the advice in the warning legacy he left is this admonition:

"Of all the dispositions and habits which lead to political prosperity, religion and morality are indispensable supports. Let us with caution indulge the supposition that morality can be maintained without religion."

Our democracy will never be destroyed by infiltrating Reds. It can be made to wither by neglected roots. The surest way to cause the fair flower of freedom to fade is by cutting the roots reaching into rich ancestral soil, in which they have been nourished and from which, fed by springs of living water, have come their help and health.

A cut flower is a doomed flower. For a democracy which has fruits without roots the undertaker called Time is already at the door.

In this frightening day it is dawning upon America, in the glow of a new spiritual renaissance, that only religious faith can undergird democracy, and that when this fades some form of coercive totalitarianism will lift an almighty state into the vacant throne of God.

The titanic global struggle of today is not primarily a power contest between two political giants. The contest is the hammer and sickle versus the spires. The difference is God.

The Soviet blasphemy, from its very premise, is an assault on the God to whom the spires point. It is out to "liberate" all people from the fiction of religion.

The most ominously tragic thing in this day of awesome decision is that what we label "the West," in spite of its professed belief in eternal spiritual verities, has turned so largely to false gods and is under the tyranny of mere things. For multitudes, the real religion practiced is a mamon-mad priority given to the accumulation of material possessions. By a trusted spiritual leader our Western civilization has been called "a fairly nasty mixture of cash and gadgets."

The ultimate truth about this nation "under God" has never been more succinctly put than by Woodrow Wilson in his Red Road Away From Revolution, as he solemnly declared:

"The sum of the whole matter is this—that our civilization cannot survive materially unless it is redeemed spiritually. Only men can disintegrate be driven out and all the shadows lifted from the road ahead."

The confident credo of our democracy as it fronts aggressive regimentation, which regards man as a cog in an impersonal machine, is: I believe in God who is above the state. And the corollary to that is: I believe in the sacredness of every human personality.

And so,

"This, this is the marvel to mortals revealed,
When the silvery trumpets of Christmas have pealed,
That mankind are the children of God."

Republican Senator Warns GOP On Farm Issue Pledges

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican Sen. Aiken of Vermont said today the Republicans must not try to "outpromise the Democrats" in farm benefits.

Aiken, top GOP member of the Senate Agriculture Committee, said Congress should give detailed study to an administration soil bank plan expected to be submitted by Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Benson.

This plan is designed to take some acreage out of production and put it in grass and trees with the dual purpose of (1) reducing the surplus of crops and (2) improving the soil's fertility for future use.

The program would involve acreage payments to farmers and Aiken said that if these were approved by Congress, political pressure soon would be applied to boost the payments to high levels.

"We want a workable farm program," he said. "We don't want to get into a competition of promises because we want a program of performance."

Aiken forecast defeat by the Senate of a Democratic move to restore rigid, high-level price supports for field crops.

2 GIs Acquitted By Military Court

BERLIN (AP) — A six-man U.S. Army court acquitted two American soldiers today of disorderly conduct charges based on their arrest in the Soviet sector of Berlin.

The court ruled that Pvts. Willie J. Holden of Poplarville, Miss., and Richard L. Calvert of Kansas City, Mo., were innocent in a brawl which led to their arrest by Communist East German police and their subsequent release by the Russians.

A refugee, Mrs. Helene Ehlers, testified today that an East German cabaret performer, Werner Lierck, provoked an argument with the two soldiers at a Soviet sector bar on Dec. 7. When Lierck lunged toward Holden, Holden hit him in self-defense.

Knowland Itching To Enter Contest

Senate Minority Leader Tells Ike GOP Can't Wait Long For Decision

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Strong hints are coming from friends of Sen. William F. Knowland (R-Calif.), Senate minority leader, that he might not wait for announcement of President Eisenhower's political plans to enter some primaries on his own.

Stevenson has announced plans also to enter Florida, Pennsylvania and Illinois races. There are indications Kefauver may challenge him in Florida.

There was no immediate word from Stevenson but one of his supporters, John Rogers Penn, said he would seek election as a New Hampshire convention delegate pledged to Stevenson whether or not the 1952 nominee enters the contest.

Dr. Paul Dudley White, the Boston heart specialist who examined Eisenhower Saturday, said it would be mid-February before Eisenhower could be sure he is physically able to seek a second term if he wants one.

If Knowland should jump into the race, he would be doing what Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn.) did in 1952. Kefauver entered the New Hampshire primary that year before former President Truman announced whether he would seek another term, Kefauver went on to defeat Truman, whose name was entered, 19,800 to 15,927. Truman announced later he would not be a candidate.

MEANWHILE, Knowland criticized what he described as the Eisenhower administration's "acquiescence" in a package deal under which four Communist countries were admitted to the United Nations last week along with 12 non-Communist nations. He foresees it as a possible forerunner to a similar arrangement next year which might bring Red China into brilliance.

He said presidential aspirants of both parties should pledge an American veto of Red Chinese membership.

Kefauver announced yesterday he is entering the New Hampshire primary and expressed hope "the snow and ice will not deter" Adlai Stevenson, also in the running for Democrat honors.

Kefauver already is slated

To each of you, wherever you may be, from Mrs. Eisenhower and me, a very merry Christmas," he said.

Then from Gettysburg College near his country home in Pennsylvania, he pressed a key, and 8,000 varicolored lights on a giant Christmas tree in Washington burst into brilliance.

"Well, it worked," he said as he saw the lights go on via television. Mrs. Eisenhower sat beside him.

The tree, a 65-foot spruce from the Black Hills of South Dakota, stands just south of the White House grounds.

Eisenhower said this Christmas is "brighter in its background and in its promise for the future than any we have known in recent years," and he continued:

"I THINK it is even better than last year and you will remember that Christmas was the first one in many years that was not marred by the tragic incidents of war."

Peoples of the earth hunger for peace, he said, "so we can be sure that tonight in the fullness of our hearts and in the spirit of the season that as we utter a simple prayer for peace we will be joined by the multitudes of the earth."

The prayers will differ, he said, but they'll have this thought:

"May each of us strive to do our best to bring about better understanding in the world and may the infinite peace from above live with us and be ours forever and may we live in the confident hope that it will come."

Starting Today: The People Who Made Christmas

The story of Christ, from His Birth to Ascension, was the story of people. His was not an impersonal life. It touched the lowly and the mighty, even in its humble beginning.

Dr. J. Carter Swaim, director of the department of the English Bible of the National Council of Churches, has written a series of articles telling how the miracle of Christ's birth affected those who shared in the experience.

The first of these articles appears today on page 2, and the others will appear in subsequent issues of The Herald.

The North central states received the worst cold air blast.

Near-zero readings were common northward of a line reaching through northern Illinois, southern Iowa and southern Nebraska.

Below freezing temperatures reached southward into the Ohio Valley and northern Texas. Only the southern tips of Florida and Texas escaped. A balmy 68 was recorded at Key West, Fla.

The mercury nosedived to -45 at Bemidji and Big Falls, Minn., coldest of the season. Bismarck, N.D., had -30. Minneapolis - St. Paul shivered in -20 cold, a record low for the date. Chicago had a low of 2 above, coldest of the season, with a forecast of 5 below for tomorrow night.

Veterinarian J. P. Young promised to watch for another little dog to take Kernel's place.

Yesterday, he telephoned the mother Mrs. Ward A. Bessell he had just the dog, Penny and her mother went to get him. The doctor put a frisky Kernel in Penny's arms. He had nursed the dog back to health.

SNAIL BEHIND IN HIS RENT

This sad Drodole sent in by Mrs. L.H. Ballinger of Belleville, Ill., will probably start a lot of professional Do-Gooders to hollering and complaining about this snail's plight.

They may even organize a committee to raise money to purchase the snail a new shell or at least a used toothpaste tube to live in.

What these people don't know is that this snail isn't really dispossessed. He's just left home because he wants to get on to the Olympic Track Team so he can go to Australia next year, and he's out doing road work. He has high hopes of being the first snail in history to do a Four-Month Mile. And who knows, he may do it. He already holds several medals for the Two-Inch Dash.

Public Asked To Remember Story Behind Yule Lighting

Henry L. Reid Jr., head of Circleville Chamber of Commerce in 1953 when the downtown Christmas lights were purchased, urged today that the community be reminded each year of the exceptional efforts that made the decorations inspiration for all of us if we could, at the end of each year, look at our Christmas lights and see a special meaning in them—a meaning even above and beyond the Yuletide message they always carry."

Reid said he feels especially that the local public should always remember the work of the late George Fishpaw, the tireless and enthusiastic chairman of the committee that guided the successful project. The attractive downtown lighting has already drawn high compliments, many of them from tourists and traveling businessmen who are best able to compare the trimmings with those in other communities.

Fishpaw's name has become linked with the Yuletide lights more than that of any other individual. After leading the Christmas Lights Fund to its successful conclusion despite repeated and discouraging obstacles, he was fatally stricken with a heart attack while helping store away the equipment after the holiday season.

Reid pointed out that the lights not only serve as a reminder, not only of Fishpaw's own great efforts, but also of all such efforts made in behalf of community ventures.

"SURELY," Reid said, "it's little enough to ask—this silent form of gratitude—for the many men and women who are always doing things for Circleville and never asking a bit of credit for it."

"George Fishpaw indeed was typical of the best of them."

Daytonian Wins First Taft Award

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Harvard Law School today announced Glen R. Murray Jr. of Dayton, Ohio, as the first winner of the Robert A. Taft Scholarship.

The scholarship was created by the late senator's classmates in the Harvard Law School's class of 1913. Taft was a Republican senator from Ohio and a strong contender before the last election for the GOP nomination for President.

Murray is a second-year student at Harvard. He received his A.B. degree from Yale.

As a student, Taft stood at the head of his class on graduation in 1913.

Henry L. Reid Jr., head of Circleville Chamber of Commerce in 1953 when the downtown Christmas lights were purchased, urged today that the community be reminded each year of the exceptional efforts that made the decorations possible.

Reid said he feels especially that the local public should always remember the work of the late George Fishpaw, the tireless and enthusiastic chairman of the committee that guided the successful project. Reid pointed out that the lights might well serve as a reminder, not only of Fishpaw's own great efforts, but also of all such efforts made in behalf of community ventures.

Reid recalled that the Chamber in 1953 urged that the downtown lights be made a community project when the organization by itself could not provide trimmings each year for all of the downtown area. The downtown lighting apparatus remains the property of the community and is to be used only during the year-end holiday seasons.

More than $3,200 was raised by the committee led by Fishpaw to make the original purchase.

Reid's letter on the subject follows:

Man, 44, Saves Son But Flames Thwart More Rescue Efforts

SPRINGFIELD (AP) — Six young people burned to death early today when fire swept through a four-room frame bungalow three miles southwest of here.

Stevenson, who thought an exploding kerosene stove may have triggered the pre-dawn blaze, said the bodies of the six had been removed from the scene.

Robert McDaniel, 44, who was living in the house with his children and some other relatives, escaped the blaze and managed to save his 6-year-old son Wayne Richard. Flames stopped him from reaching the house's other six occupants.

McDaniel, who suffered third-degree burns over 30 per cent of his body, was in City Hospital.

McDaniel's father, John C. McDaniel, died a natural death in the hospital yesterday, and friends and relatives had been visiting his home. Robert is divorced.

The CVP has collaborated with the French in ruling the Saar, but Hoffmann's party and five smaller factions have said they will not try to block the constitutional changes necessary for returning the border state to Germany.

After Christmas, Eisenhower will fly South, probably to Augusta, Ga., to seek the warmer weather the doctors prescribed Saturday.

They said they want him to get more exercise, including some golf practice shots, than has been possible in the climate here.

A weekend examination brought word from the doctors that Eisenhower, 65, has made "excellent progress" toward recovery.

But his top medical consultant agreed with the President's personal physician, Maj. Gen. Howard M. Snyder, that it will be at least mid-February before it will be known how the President's damaged heart stands up under increasing activity.

Dr. Paul Dudley White, the Boston heart specialist, told a news conference Saturday, "it is possible for the President to live for years and be fully active." Yet he added that "the future is in the lap of the gods."

REPORTERS who observed Eisenhower yesterday thought he looked more cheerful and alert than for several weeks.

That was when he drove to Gettysburg College with Mrs. Eisenhower to voice his Christmas greetings to the nation and press a golden key lighting the national Christmas tree at Washington.

The situation today, the President told his radio-TV audience, does not measure up to the hopes of the free world.

But, he said, this Christmas is "brighter in its background and its promise for the future than any we have known in recent years."

The President will meet with the National Security Council Thursday afternoon at the White House, his first such meeting in Washington since he was stricken by a heart attack Sept. 24. There will be no Cabinet meeting this week, since many of the members will be going home for the holidays.

The date for the President's flight South has not been announced. His doctors want him to go immediately after Christmas. If he gets away, he will return to Washington briefly for the Jan. 3 opening of Congress, then return to remain until about Jan. 9.

The President will send his State of the Union message to Congress rather than deliver it in person.

The People Who Made Christmas

Following is the first of a series of articles of the people who played leading roles in the Biblical story of the Birth of Christ. The articles were written by Dr. J. Carter Swain, director of the Department of the English Bible, National Council of Churches.

KING HEROD

The ancient world had no better way of fixing time than by reference to the reigning monarch.

Luke (1:5) dates the birth of Jesus "in the days of Herod, king of Judea." In a frantic effort to get rid of any who might take his throne, King Herod "killed all the male children in Bethlehem and in all that region who were two years old or under" (Matt. 2:16).

But that was not an unprecedented example of his cruelty; he had already murdered two of his own sons, suspected of plotting against him.

Many kings bore the name of Herod, but this one is called Herod the Great. The title was bestowed by the Romans for carrying out in his part of the world the grandiose plans of Augustus.

Herod gratified his dreams of magnificence by an extensive building program, which included the reconstruction of the temple in Jerusalem, and the erection of the luxurious quarters for his wives, of whom there were ten all told—nine at one time.

He decreed that on the day he himself died, all the leading citizens should be put to death. This was to insure that there would be mourning in the land! Augustus said he would rather be Herod's pig than his son.

All that Herod did was done with an eye to perpetuating his sovereignty. It was to make his throne secure that Herod slew the infants. But what a strange reversal is here!

History has put the Child at the pinnacle. Luke dates the birth of Jesus "In the days of Herod, king of Judea" (Luke 1:5). Now there is another point of reference—and one that does not change.

Everything now is dated before and after Christ.

The reference books even say that Herod became king in 37 B.C.!

Talk Changes: Ike Now Said Ready To Run

and daughter-in-law, Maj. and Mrs. John Eisenhower, and the three Eisenhower grandchildren. A fourth is expected shortly.

After Christmas, Eisenhower will fly South, probably to Augusta, Ga., to seek the warmer weather the doctors prescribed Saturday.

They said they want him to get more exercise, including some golf practice shots, than has been possible in the climate here.

A weekend examination brought word from the doctors that Eisenhower, 65, has made "excellent progress" toward recovery.

But his top medical consultant agreed with the President's personal physician, Maj. Gen. Howard M. Snyder, that it will be at least mid-February before it will be known how the President's damaged heart stands up under increasing activity.

Dr. Paul Dudley White, the Boston heart specialist, told a news conference Saturday, "It is possible for the President to live for years and be fully active." Yet he added that "the future is in the lap of the gods."

REPORTERS who observed Eisenhower yesterday thought he looked more cheerful and alert than for several weeks.

That was when he drove to Gettysburg College with Mrs. Eisenhower to voice his Christmas greetings to the nation and press a golden key lighting the national Christmas tree at Washington.

The situation today, the President told his radio-TV audience, does not measure up to the hopes of the free world.

But, he said, this Christmas is "brighter in its background and its promise for the future than any we have known in recent years."

Lindsey H. Little, 41, of Ironville, and Howard D. Sennett, 26, of Portsmouth; each fined $100 and costs, each sentenced to three consecutive days in jail and had their licenses suspended for six months each; both arrested by State Patrolman Gene Miller.

Alto Lane, 47, of Cincinnati, and Edward Wing, 52, of Wilmington; each fined $100 and costs, each sentenced to three consecutive days in jail and had their licenses suspended for one year as evangelist Billy Sunday's chief musical aide, died in his home in nearby Winona Lake yesterday following a cerebral hemorrhage suffered four days earlier.

A prolific writer of gospel music and evangelistic books, Rodeheaver travelled the sawdust trail to all corners of the world, playing his slide trombone in city churches and the jungles of Africa.

He headed the Rodeheaver Hall-Mack Co. at Winona Lake, publishers and recorders of gospel music, and operated a Pilatka, Fla., ranch for underprivileged boys in recent years.

Rodeheaver was studying law at Ohio Wesleyan University when his cheer-leading activities caught the attention of an evangelist who needed a song leader. Rodeheaver took the job, quit his legal studies and joined Sunday.

Rodeheaver, a native of Union Furnace, Ohio, received his first musical training as a youngster in the mountains of Tennessee.

He served as an Army bandman in Cuba during the Spanish-American War and was a YMCA World War I volunteer in France.

Rodeheaver, who never married, is survived by a sister, Ruth Thomas of Winona Lake.

Funeral services will be in the Warsaw Methodist Church tomorrow with Bishop Arthur S. Moore of Atlanta, Ga., officiating. Burial will be in Oakwood Cemetery here.

Rodeheaver is a veteran of World War II. He is survived by his wife, Dorthie; two brothers, John H. and Allen O. of Circleville; two sisters, Mrs. Curtis Reid of Circleville and Mrs. Gideon Erhard of Delphos, and many nieces and nephews.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Tuesday at the Baker and Boering Funeral Home in Thornville.

WHAT COUNTRY IN EUROPE IS YOUR ANCESTRAL HOME?

Answer to That of Greatest Importance To Neighborhood Grocers, Restaurants

This young lady hails, no doubt, from New York's Yorkville section or, possibly, Bridgeport, Conn. The clue? She's assembling the filling for a Hungarian strudel.

By MEL HEIMER
Central Press Association Staff Writer

NEW YORK—It is entirely possible that somewhere in these United States is a man contemplating opening a Russian-type restaurant in Butte, Mont., complete with red beet soup (borscht) and many items served on flaming swords.

For this man, Paul Sayres has three words: Don't do it.

The reason this would not be the soundest of ventures is that there are only 788 Russians in all Butte, and the reason Sayres knows this is that he's a food broker, whose work and hobby has been studying American eating habits and writing and lecturing about them.

Operating in suburban Mt. Vernon, our man has discovered that it's impossible to buy Hungarian salami in Portland, Me., because all Maine has only 87 Hungarians, and Belgian sardines in Albuquerque, N. M., because New Mexico can round up only 38 Belgians for a quick poker game.

It's an entertaining topic to the layman. To the man meditating opening a grocery store, it's life or death. If he doesn't know the ancestral roots of the residents in his neighborhood, his business will die on the vine. This is where Paul comes in.

"There are in the United States," he says, "a total of 10,161,168 foreign-born residents—and an additional 23,589,485 who are the offspring of foreign or mixed parentage. All these people's eating habits are influenced by the country of their origin."

TO CITE an easy example, Sayres feels no qualms in telling an Italian-type restaurant owner to set up shop in New York City—where the Italian population is 344,115. If you're a shopkeeper, you'll move olive oil, cheeses, spices, macaroni and spaghetti swiftly in the big town, provided you hunt out the predominantly Italian sections.

Green grocers won't become millionaires in Boston, Paul says. That city has a big Irish population—and the Irish eat fewer salads than any other national group. They might do better in Cleveland, where there are only 4,229, or a comparative handful, of galloping Gaels.

It could be that only Sayres knows such fascinating tidbits of information as the fact that Mississippi's German population is only 808, making the place a bad risk for German beer or Viennese pastries. A footloose Hungarian going through South Carolina on his way to Florida could go crazy trying to dig up a plate of goulash or just a cellar of paprika.

COLUMBUS (AP)—Newark High School won three first places to capture top honors among 24 schools in the All-Events Speech Tournament in Columbus North High Saturday.

"Mary Haworth's Mail"

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I am terribly worried about a man with whom I have been in love since college days, I think. I met him five years ago, and had his fraternity pin for eight months. Now I am 24, and Bob is 26.

Shortly before we broke up, we had started disagreeing over trifles; and this led to a lot of fights, which finally made us realize that we couldn't go on the way we had been. But we've been very good friends since then anyway.

Well, early last year I started dating Mike, who asked me two months ago to marry him. I haven't given him an answer yet, because since he proposed I have done a lot of thinking and I honestly feel that I will always love Bob. Although Mike is wonderful to me, I think it will be wrong for both of us if I marry him.

Asks Encouragement

All my friends say they wish Bob and I would get back together again, and that I could win him back if I try. If I could, I would be the happiest girl in the world, I believe. But I don't think I can and I feel that I know him well enough to be able to tell.

At times when I am around him, I think I'd have a very good chance of getting him back; but always something happens to discourage me. Everyone tells me I have no self-confidence, which is quite true. I have none whatever and it bothers me—because I wasn't that way until Bob and I broke up.

For me there is nobody else but Bob; I know that. But I have no idea how to get him back. If there is any help you can give me, it would be more than appreciated.

K. Y.

DEAR K. Y.: As the saying goes, "It's all in the mind." The story of human achievement boils down pretty much to the fact that "A person can, who thinks he can." Also it is a social axiom that "Any woman can win the man she wants"—provided she cares enough to persevere, and make up her mind to do it.

The social scene affords abundant evidence that feminine self-confidence and persistence move mountains. Recently, for example, a widely publicized marriage was made between a famous man and a pleasantly attractive divorcee; and well-wishers murmured: "Remember, she said 20 years ago that she was going to marry him some day—if it was the last thing she ever did."

Obviously a natural attraction and an emotional attachment of sorts, exists between you and Bob, or you wouldn't continue to be good friends in the wake of a broken romance. Significantly, in his presence you have flashes of feeling that you'd stand a good chance of winning him back—which means that a spark of real mutuality still glows; and that you are conscious (momentarily) of your appeal for him.

Thaw Out; Be Alive
But your defeatist approach to life, your ingrained notion that "dreams come true" are not for you, tends to drain your personality in relation to Bob, I gather. Just because he is, for you, the indispensable man, without whose allegiance you can't be happy, you are tense and dejected, rather than blooming, in the role of the girl who loves him best.

By contrast, in relation to Mike, who matters less—who you can "take or leave"—you are a different person, I am sure; more magnetic and more companionable, because more relaxed and more nearly yourself. Therefore he's charmed and wants to marry you. To change your luck with Bob, try to be this girl in his presence.

If you love him, don't make it a problem. Love him (in your mind and heart) without fuming and fretting. Let acceptance shine from your face and deportment, in buoyant spirit. Praise him sincerely, as occasion suggests. Relax in the friendship. Have fun; be gay and good-humored. Listen warmly and affirmatively when he talks, or refers to himself. In short, come out of your shell and be cordially alive. The net results for you will be all to the good.

Meanwhile, ask Mike to give you six months in which to decide about him.

Bible Expert Writes Series On Christmas

Dr. J. Carter Swain, author of a series starting in The Herald today about the people of the Biblical Christmas, is widely known as a pastor, teacher, author and Bible student.

Since 1954 he has been director of the Department of the English Bible of the National Council of Churches. He came to that post after 10 years in the Western Theological Seminary in Pittsburgh, Pa., where he was professor of New Testament literature and exegesis.

His work as professor was preceded by pastorates in a number of Presbyterian churches in the United States and in Scotland.

After college training in this country, he obtained his Ph.D from OLD BANJO'S BACK!

Plinkety-Plunk Music Again Popular After Absence of Twenty-Five Years

"Way down upon the Swanne river—plinkety-plunk! In the Deep South the banjo has always been a part of the musical folklore of that section of the country."

WETHERSFIELD, Conn.—The auditorium here holds 2,200 people. When a local banjo band auditions, the house is packed to the rafters. Not once, but always. What does it mean? Simply that the banjo is back.

For nearly 25 years, the cheerful plinkety-plunk of the banjo has been strangely missing from American music. Now it's back—it's popularity sweeping the country in a musical heat-wave that is greater than the recent mambo madness.

For some unknown reason this long-necked instrument with a tambourine-like body has again recaptured its place in the hearts of Americans, regardless of locale, age or color. No one knows exactly what happened, but the fact remains.

Checking music stores in a dozen cities gives the same answer: folk are buying banjos as fast as dealers put them on the shelves.

In Portland, Ore., Harry Leeding, city editor of the Oregon Journal, recently dusted off his old banjo and started strumming it. He made a news item of the event, then found out that hundreds of his readers were doing the same thing.

In Cambridge, Mass., students at Harvard have formed numerous banjo groups, and in nearby Boston, MIT students are doing the same thing. In the theatrical world, stage and movie actor Kirk Douglas is an avid banjo fan. A stage production, now being readied, is entitled The Big Banjo. You guessed it—some 50 banjo players are used in the cast.

EVEN television has turned to the banjo, and radio commercials are suddenly full of banjo ditties. First in the long line of recorded tunes was Art Mooney's I'm Looking Over a Four-leaf Clover.

The American Music Conference, which reports musical preferences over the nation, estimates that about 20 per cent of all the musical families in America today have banjos. The new trend is even reflected in popular music, for example, Man With the Banjo, Hey, Mr. Banjo, and Banjo's Back in Town. Even a disinterested critic must admit that overnight America is going plinkety-plunk.

Both the four-stringed and the five-stringed instruments are seemingly popular. The five-stringed instrument is plucked, while the tenor or four-stringed banjo is played with a plectrum or pick.

THE FIVE-STRINGED instrument, once called the American banjo, is native to this country. Most authorities agree that this distinctive instrument was brought from Africa to America by Negroes, who probably first picked up the idea from the Arabians.

One of the first mentions of the banjo in America was made by President Thomas Jefferson in his Notes on Virginia. He tells of an instrument the Negroes called the "banjar," also known as the "banjer" or "banga."

The American minstrel show really brought the banjo to national popularity, back in the 19th century. These groups toured the land, from the big cities down to the whistle-stops and tank-towns. The banjo was part of the show.

From minstrel time to ragtime and jazz was only a short hop and skip for the banjo. In the 1920s, the instrument began keeping company with trumpets, clarinets, trombones and pianos.

Three Dixieland jazz groups of national renown, the Dixieland Jazz Band, the New Orleans Rhythm Kings and the Wolverines, made banjo history, both here and abroad. Later, such artists as Eddy Peabody toured the world, twanging a banjo.

THEN, SUDDENLY, for no reason at all, the banjo dropped out of popularity.

It is only one part of the country—the southeastern mountains—has the banjo's place in American folk music remained fairly constant. Here in the Carolinas, the Virginias, Georgia, and part of the Ozark and Cumberland mountain chains, playing the banjo has been passed down from father to son.

The traditional mountain ballads live today just as they did a century ago. It has been an integral part of American folk music, carried westward by the pioneers back in the days of the Conestoga wagon trains.

The University of Wisconsin recently hired virtuoso Jose Silva to play a History of the Banjo series next year, and banjo manufacturers say that their sales have doubled in the last six months. They even anticipate a shortage for the Christmas trade.

Merry plinkety-plunk to you!

About this time of the year, haven't you had the yen to know what the week before Christmas was like for the storekeepers of old Roundtown — when our Court-house was in the middle of Court and Main and the town's circular pattern was still intact?

Let's see if we can piece something together from facts found in old newspapers and family records.

Of course we know there was no big splurge of gift buying as is today, nor was the period of buying so long drawn out, but the folks in those days did have their Christmas—"be it ever so humble." We can imagine all the storekeepers on the Circle entered into the spirit of the season and tried to outdo one another in decorating their stores and, at night, had their windows all lit up with candles.

While some of the folks had to do some scrimping to get the wherewithal for their Christmas buying, certainly the storekeepers had their troubles, too. It was difficult for them to stock up with many of the essentials of living, let alone some gimcracks for the holidays.

Even though they could buy what they wanted in the East — to get them delivered to Circleville was more of a problem.

Transportation was so inadequate at that time, that it took months sometimes, to get an order delivered. Most of Circleville's merchants bought in Baltimore and Philadelphia. The quickest and surest way to get in a stock for Christmas was to send someone for it or go after it yourself.

River transportation was used when possible, while the rest of the trip was by pack trains and, in later years, by covered wagons. It was not unusual for parts of the round trip to be made on foot.

ANOTHER THING which made the lot of the early merchant not an easy one, was the scarcity of actual cash or "specie", as it was called. Most business was carried on bartering or swapping. Even though our country had its own coinage then, based on the decimal system, as had been recommended by Thomas Jefferson, yet many places in the newly-settled regions still carried on business in English pounds, shillings and pence.

Our country's coinage was so limited that for many years there was not near enough in circulation to do business with. So anything that was money or had been used as a medium of exchange, still was acceptable to the merchant. In circulation were French, Dutch, Italian, English and Spanish coins.

We suspect you could even use Indian wampum in some regions as long as until the year 1857, Spanish money was legally acceptable in trade in the United States. Then, too, some of the original states had been issuing their own currency, in pounds, shillings and pence, which constantly fluctuated in value in relation to our U. S. dollar.

Let's pretend a bill of Christmas goods was sold, amounting to $3.50. The customer has the cash to pay, but his money is made up of several kinds of States' currency—say he has 12 shillings and 8 pence of New York money; 7 shillings and 6 pence, issued by the State of Pennsylvania, and 9 shillings of Virginia paper money.

You figure it out—I'm sure our potential Santa Claus would like to know what he had left for a little candy for the kiddies at home.

May we share with you in an old-fashioned — MERRY CHRISTMAS?

paper money was worth a dollar, New England and Virginia currency, six shillings to the dollar, and South Carolina currency was quoted at 6 shillings, 1 pence to the dollar.

Any one having an old arithmetic, dating back a hundred years or more, probably can find it, conversion tables for figuring how much States' money it took to make a United States dollar. No question about it—the early Roundtown merchants had plenty of trouble with their cash sales. If you don't think so — how about working this deal out?

New Trial Sought In 'Fix' Case

CLEVELAND (AP)—Attorney A.L. Kearns plans to present a written motion today for a new trial for Miss Helen Jaffrin, convicted of contempt in an alleged scheme to "fix" a traffic ticket.

Kearns said the motion would claim eight errors in ruling on evidence and another for overruling a motion of prejudice.

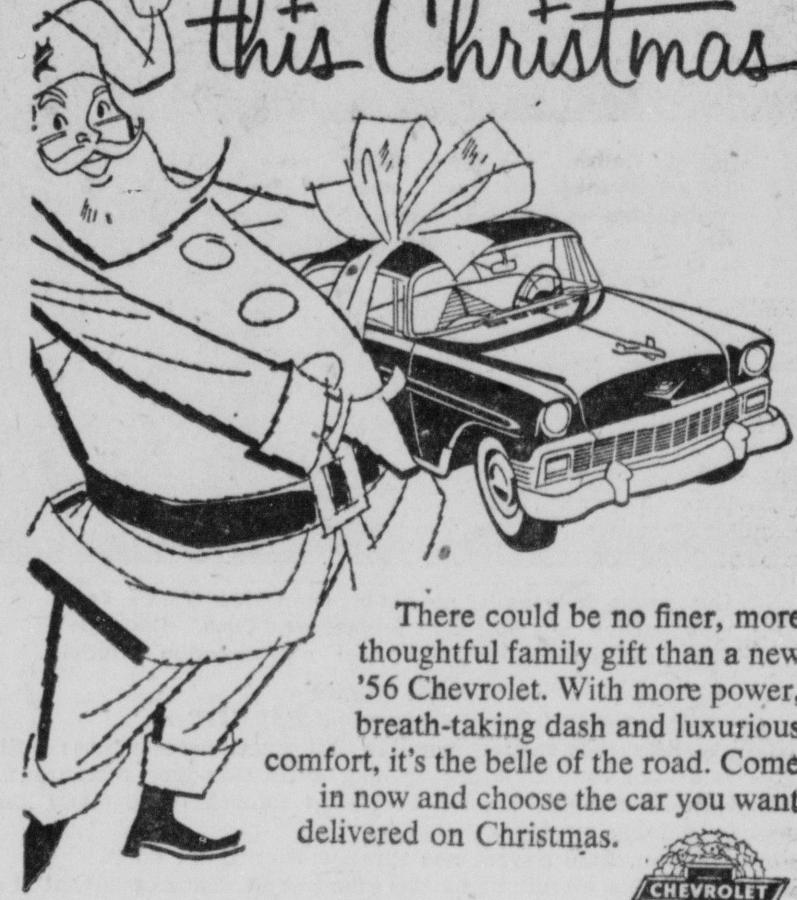

He will present the motion to Municipal Judge John V. Corrigan, who convicted Miss Jaffrin, fined her $500 and sentenced her to 10 days in jail.

CANTON (AP)—For saving a 2-year-old boy from drowning, James Auld, 59, is to be presented the President's Medal of the National Safety Council today.

The tot, Mark Gowing, fell off a dock at nearby Lake Cable last April 11. Another man, Paul Lookbaugh, pulled him from the water and Auld successfully applied artificial respiration.

Auld learned first aid in classes at Republic Steel Corp. where he is a roller.

Can't you picture the unique eight-sided Court House, of which our forebears had so much pride, all dolled up with evergreen festoons and lighted at night with candles in every window of the two floors and the little cupola on top? We can imagine the uptown Circle was a busy area—people coming by foot, in saddle and in every kind of wheeled rig.

STABLE SPACE and hitching racks were at a premium — even parking is these days. A good imagination can even make almost real, some Christmas music in the air, coming, maybe from one of the stores or possibly from the Court on by bartering or swapping. Even though our country had its own coinage then, based on the decimal system, as had been recommended by Thomas Jefferson, yet many places in the newly-settled regions still carried on business in English pounds, shillings and pence.

AMERICAN NEWSPAPER SOARS OVER POLISH IRON CURTAIN

Exiled Polish journalists Maria Irazewicz and Dr. Adam Bromke examine a copy of Free Europe, the Polish language tabloid delivered by balloon in Poland.

By JOHN GOETTE
Central Press Association Staff Writer

NEW YORK — A novelty in delivery methods of an eight-page tabloid newspaper is reported back to the Free Europe committee here from its staff in West Germany. Polish readers behind the Iron Curtain are now receiving the newspaper bi-weekly via plastic balloons flying courses from four to five miles above the earth.

Copies of the tabloid with their news columns and pictures leave bases in the West German republic in plastic balloons, each of which carries some 300 copies and a simple dry ice release device. At a predetermined time the dry ice evaporates, the container tips and the "invading" tabloids spill out over Polish countryside.

Americans at home provide, through the Crusade for Freedom, the funds which support the Free Europe Press and its complementary Radio Free Europe.

Other Americans in Western Germany work with exiles from Poland to provide the newspaper and operate the launching sites to take to Poland its first "free press" since the Communists seized power there.

Named Free Europe, this airborne newspaper advises its readers behind the Iron Curtain that for editorial policy, "our main purpose is to defend the Polish people's right to be free, free from Soviet occupation, both military and political, and from all foreign intervention in Polish affairs."

THE CONTENTS of this high-flying newspaper, which are co-ordinated with broadcasts over Radio Free Europe's powerful "Voice of Free Poland," include two pages devoted to extracts from editorials and news stories in leading Western newspapers.

Other articles present recent U. S. and West European statements on captive countries, report activities of Poles in the Free World, and deal with events within Poland which are ignored in the Red press.

WASHINGTON (AP) — You can figure out—from what President Eisenhower's doctors said over the weekend—just that he can't do if he runs for re-election, and his doctors haven't yet said he could.

This is out: He will not be able to campaign in the usual way. The usual way means intense and unpredictable physical exertion: plane hops, train rides, step climbing, handshaking, impromptu speeches, long hours.

But, because of television, he could campaign extensively with TV speeches and reach more voters than any of his predecessors, in the days before TV, if they had traveled the country for a year.

It's possible Eisenhower already has decided not to seek a second term. It's unthinkable that he had made up his mind to run before his doctors say he's physically up to it or would decide to try if they said he shouldn't.

If the doctors say he shouldn't run—and they won't make their decision until after they check him in mid-February—Eisenhower could not, for his own sake and that of the country, go contrary to their verdict.

That would be asking the country to take a chance on a president whose doctors think he is a poor physical risk.

His doctors didn't say in so many words—after examining him Saturday—that he could not run for the presidency in the traditional slam-bang, round-the-country, all-hours kind of campaign.

But it was implicit in what they said.

They said he should go South for a few weeks to get more exercise. Just what kind of exercise did they have in mind? The only kind they mentioned was knocking some golf balls around.

That would involve some walking, of course, but far less walking than if he played nine holes of golf. It would be very moderate exercise. But what about playing some rounds of golf, since it involves more exercise?

Not until spring, his doctors said. And they said a round by spring, not rounds. Before his heart attack last September Eisenhower played as much as 27 holes, a truly tough form of exercise.

It's a good bet the doctors won't let Eisenhower play 27 holes again, ever, whether or not he stays in the White House, and not only because he's had a heart attack but because he's no kid anymore. He's 65.

But if the doctors are so careful about his exercise that they don't want him to play a round of golf till spring, they could hardly approve the vast fatigue of the

Psychiatric Test For Hoaxer Sought

CLEVELAND (AP) — Police today will seek a psychiatric examination of Harvey Rush, who wangled a free ride here from Los Angeles after falsely confessing the murder of Beverly Potts.

Homicide Capt. David E. Kerr said he would go to probate court for an examination order. Rush, a 46-year-old drifter, admitted his confession was a hoax.

It is believed he cannot be prosecuted for any offense here except perhaps vagrancy. Police said they intend to give Rush a lie detector test to clear up all possible doubts about his connection with the Potts girl, who disappeared in 1951.

Moderation in exercise for Eisenhower simply means cutting down on extreme forms of it. It doesn't necessarily mean he could not endure the daily routine of four more White House years.

Even Ohio Convicts Doing Their Christmas Shopping

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — How do you do your Christmas shopping when prison bars separate you from the shops?

That's the problem of more than 10,000 Ohioans who will spend the Christmas holiday season in penal institutions for adults. About 5,000 will be behind the walls of Ohio Penitentiary in Columbus.

Warden Ralph W. Alvis says inmates either can buy Christmas presents made in the prison's industrial arts department or buy things from mail order houses to send to their wives, sweethearts, parents, children and friends on the "outside."

Inmates can send 18 Christmas cards to friends and relatives. Most send about 10, Alvis said, which means 50,000 to 60,000 will be sent by prisoners this year, between Dec. 5 and Dec. 24.

Prisoners each can buy up to $25 worth of candy, peanuts, toilet articles, fruit cakes, cooked meats, candy and the like in the Christmas commissary.

AMERICAN NEWSPAPER SOARS OVER POLISH IRON CURTAIN

Exiled Polish journalists Maria Iraszewicz and Dr. Adam Bromke examine a copy of Free Europe, the Polish language tabloid delivered by balloon in Poland.

By JOHN GOETTE
Central Press Association Staff Writer

NEW YORK — A novelty in delivery methods of an eight-page tabloid newspaper is reported back to the Free Europe committee here from its staff in West Germany. Polish readers behind the Iron Curtain are now receiving the newspaper bi-weekly via plastic balloons flying courses from four to five miles above the earth.

Copies of the tabloid with their news columns and pictures leave bases in the West German republic in plastic balloons, each of which carries some 300 copies and a simple dry ice release device. At a predetermined time the dry ice evaporates, the container tips and the "invading" tabloids spill out over Polish countryside.

Americans at home provide, through the Crusade for Freedom, the funds which support the Free Europe Press and its complementary Radio Free Europe.

Other Americans in Western Germany work with exiles from Poland to provide the newspaper and operate the launching sites to take to Poland its first "free press" since the Communists seized power there.

Named Free Europe, this airborne newspaper advises its readers behind the Iron Curtain that for editorial policy, "our main purpose is to defend the Polish people's right to be free, free from Soviet occupation, both military and political, and from all foreign intervention in Polish affairs."

THE CONTENTS of this high-flying newspaper, which are co-ordinated with broadcasts over Radio Free Europe's powerful "Voice of Free Poland," include two pages devoted to extracts from editorials and news stories in leading Western newspapers.

Other articles present recent U.S. and West European statements on captive countries, report activities of Poles in the Free World, and deal with events within Poland which are ignored in the Red press.

By way of explaining to the people of Poland why balloons and newspapers are used to penetrate their Iron Curtain, the tabloid stresses that the Communist regime does not permit "free communication between peoples by ordinary and commonly available means."

AMERICANS and the Polish exiles, who edit this Free Europe publication, strive to make plain the basic liberation theme of all enterprises supported by dollars given to the Crusade for Freedom in the United States.

In translation, the tabloid thus tells its readers that "Poland's future political and economic systems are matters which must be determined by the Polish people themselves under conditions of freedom and independence."

At Free Europe Press headquarters in New York gratification is expressed that the new tabloid is reaching its Polish targets.

In past operations, where some 220 million leaflets were directed elsewhere behind the Iron Curtain, Red authorities have gone to the extremes of directing barrages of anti-aircraft fire at high soaring Crusade for Freedom balloons.

WASHINGTON — You can figure out—from what President Eisenhower's doctors said over the weekend—just that he can't do if he runs for re-election, and his doctors haven't yet said he could.

This is out: He will not be able to campaign in the usual way. The usual way means intense and unpredictable physical exertion: plane hops, train rides, step climbing, handshaking, impromptu speeches, long hours.

But, because of television, he could campaign extensively with TV speeches and reach more voters than any of his predecessors, in the days before TV, if they had traveled the country for a year.

It's possible Eisenhower already has decided not to seek a second term. It's unthinkable that he had made up his mind to run before his doctors say he's physically up to it or would decide to try if they said he shouldn't.

If the doctors say he shouldn't run—and they won't make their decision until after they check him in mid-February—Eisenhower could not, for his own sake and that of the country, go contrary to their verdict.

That would be asking the country to take a chance on a president whose doctors think he is a poor physical risk.

His doctors didn't say in any words—after examining him Saturday—that he could not run for the presidency in the traditional slam-bang, round-the-country, up-all-hours kind of campaign.

But it was implicit in what they said.

They said he should go South for a few weeks to get more exercise. Just what kind of exercise did they have in mind? The only kind they mentioned was knocking some golf balls around.

That would involve some walking, of course, but far less walking than if he played nine holes of golf. It would be very moderate exercise. But what about playing some rounds of golf, since it involves more exercise?

Not until spring, his doctors said. And they said a round by spring, not rounds. Before his heart attack last September, Eisenhower played as much as 27 holes, a truly tough form of exercise.

It's a good bet the doctors won't let Eisenhower play 27 holes again, ever, whether or not he stays in the White House, and not only because he's had a heart attack but because he's no kid anymore. He's 65.

But if the doctors are so careful about his exercise that they don't want him to play a round of golf till spring, they could hardly approve the vast fatigue of the

Psychiatric Test For Hoaxer Sought

CLEVELAND — Police today will seek a psychiatric examination of Harvey Rush, who wangled a free ride here from Los Angeles after falsely confessing the murder of Beverly Potts.

Homicide Capt. David E. Kerr said he would go to probate court for an examination order. Rush, a 46-year-old drifter, admitted his confession was a hoax.

It is believed he cannot be prosecuted for any offense here except perhaps vagrancy. Police said they intend to give Rush a lie detector test to clear up all possible doubts about his connection with the Potts girl, who disappeared in 1951.

Brewery Official Facing Divorce

SANTA MONICA, Calif. — Mrs. Ulrich B. Busch, 51, has filed suit for separate maintenance, claiming her husband, a member of the St. Louis brewing family, left their Brentwood home last May saying:

The complaint charged extreme cruelty.

usual presidential campaign for him just a few months later.

Moderation in exercise for Eisenhower simply means cutting down on extreme forms of it. It doesn't necessarily mean he could not endure the daily routine of four more White House years.

Even Ohio Convicts Doing Their Christmas Shopping

COLUMBUS, Ohio — How do you do your Christmas shopping when prison bars separate you from the shops?

That's the problem of more than 10,000 Ohioans who will spend the Christmas holiday season penal institutions for adults. About 5,000 will be behind the walls of Ohio Penitentiary in Columbus.

Warden Ralph W. Alvis says inmates either can buy Christmas presents made in the prison's industrial arts department or buy things from mail order houses to send to their wives, sweethearts, parents, children and friends on the outside.

Inmates can send 18 Christmas cards to friends and relatives. Most send about 10, Alvis said, which means 50,000 to 60,000 will be sent by prisoners this year, between Dec. 5 and Dec. 24.

Prisoners each can buy up to $25 worth of candy, peanuts, toilet articles, fruit cakes, cooked meats, candy and the like in the Christmas commissary.

Canton Is Picked For Bible College

CANTON — Trustees of the Cleveland Bible College, a Quaker institution, have decided to move the school here and turn it into a four-year liberal arts college. Officials of the school, now a two-year denominational junior college, said the move was decided because Canton is a population center for Quakers in the area and no other college is here.

Its current enrollment of 250 is expected to double after operations begin here. Plans for the school, which eventually will become fully accredited as a four-year-college, include construction of four buildings at a cost of $1 million.

Independent Unions Plan Organization

ST. LOUIS — Fifty representatives of independent labor unions are laying the groundwork for a proposed organization of some six million union members outside the big AFL-CIO combine.

The three-day meeting, which started Sunday, is sponsored by the 1,800,000-member National Independent Union Council and the 450,000-member Confederated Unions of America. The sessions are preliminary to a merger convention in Washington Feb. 6.

Roger M. Rettig of St. Louis, national chairman of the NIUC, estimated membership in all independent unions at six million.

A POTENTIAL MENACE

IT IS AN old joke that the government can give away many things but not rainfall. Freedom is safer as long as governments do not possess this power. Dictatorship could be more powerful than ever in the past if it had the secret of denying or supplying life-giving water.

But Washington is seeking to discover what the potentialities of artificial rain-making may be. The President has an advisory committee on weather control which will evaluate private efforts to modify the weather. Detailed monthly reports will be received from all rain makers and other weather experimenters. The government will put together a final report in 1956.

Theoretically, at least, seeding clouds may produce rainfall. But experimenters are going beyond that. Ways are claimed of preventing rainfall when too much has fallen.

This opens the vista to a possible pattern of "the government gives and the government takes away." It is not difficult to imagine citizens of a state that is "wrong" politically with their tongues hanging out until they yielded to the dominant political organization. The result would be a central government with powers derived not from the people but from the whims of the government itself.

RED HOGWASH

HISTORY revision by the Moscow reds has now been expanded to embrace fantasy. They're redoing Grimm's Fairy Tales to persuade children Western capitalists are the villains.

In the Grimm version Hansel and Gretel, poor children abandoned in the forest by a cruel stepmother, fell into the clutches of an old witch who fattened Hansel to eat him. Gretel lured her into a hot oven, locked the door and the old witch perished. The children escaped laden with riches from the witches hoard. They found their stepmother dead and they lived happily ever after.

The communist version identifies Hansel and Gretel as children of hard-working collective farmers who wandered into the capitalist West and were seized by the wife of a greedy capitalist. She presented them to her husband as slave laborers. They fled, pursued by the capitalists. Just as they were about to be captured, they were saved by red border guards.

Russian propagandists must strive to present the appearance of being busy to escape the firing squad, no doubt. But evidence is mounting that they are close to the end of their imaginative resources.

FOLLANSBEE SPIRIT

FOLLANSBEE, W. VA., like many another community, was face to face with a crisis but fought back. Perhaps the fact that extinction of the town was threatened was what spurred the populace into action. The town's steel mill, which provided employment for 1,000 men and was the town's main reason for existence, had been sold and was to be dismantled and moved to Alabama.

En masse, the town's inhabitants stood up and yelled—and went to court. The result was that a new buyer was found who has agreed to operate the plant for three years. Concerted civic action can move

Just what can photo reconnaissance do? The most impressive single display is a single strip of film 200 feet long and 9 inches wide. The strip maps an area of the United States 2,700 miles long and 490 miles wide from New York to Los Angeles.

The strip was filmed in 1948 from 40,000 feet up in less than four hours.

To the untrained spectator such a film reveals little. All he can pick out are mountains, cities, lakes, rivers and some roads.

But when sections of the film are enlarged and checked by trained photo interpretation experts with special instruments and new techniques, they reveal a very great deal.

These Days

That the worker is entitled to his hire is an ancient adage. To live, we must receive wages according to some measure. In the most difficult beginning of the current capitalist era the law of supply and demand governed wages as it governed all economic processes. And a hard law it is.

Years ago, I wrote on this subject stating: "The only true measure of a worker's worth is his personal productivity." This is the general procedure in all industries in which time studies are made to determine the share of each worker in the production of a commodity.

There may be 10 or 100 or any number of workers to turn a screw or a cock or a wheel before the polished, finished product, appears for sale. Each one gets a share of the labor cost. However, this rule is elastic because minimums have been set for hourly wages and the labor unions make their own time studies.

In mass production industries, which may be regarded as semi-skilled, the worker more usually sells his time than his abilities. In highly-skilled industries, the worker sells his ability and training as well as his time. In unskilled industries, he sells only time. It is a very complex process for the determination of a just wage.

In the United States, as in no other country, the labor cost of a commodity is its principal cost, running in various industries from 60 to 80 percent. This not only means that the price is determined more by wages than by any other cost but also that the wages are kept high to maintain a high purchasing power. Every American worker is, in European or Asiatic terms, in the bourgeoisie rather than in the proletariat.

A reader wrote me several years ago in reply to the above quotation:

"In my opinion, this should read: 'The only true measure of a worker's worth is his personal need.' I feel that this is the only Christian way of looking at a worker's value to his employer. . . ."

This is a Marxist-Leninist definition of wages for the Communist period of the revolution which has not yet been achieved in Soviet Russia. The official "History of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union," a book which every member of the Communist Party in the world is required to read and believe, has this to say on the subject of wages:

"The economic foundation of the U.S.S.R. is the Socialist system of the economy and the Socialist ownership of the means of production. In the U.S.S.R. is realized the Socialist principle: 'From each according to his ability, to each according to his work.'

This is not Communism. Under Communism there would be no wages but each would be supplied according to his needs. After nearly 40 years, no Communist economy has come into existence anywhere in the world, not even in Soviet Russia, because no one can decide how to achieve distribution according to needs. What are needs?

What are anyone's needs? They are limitless. As one develops his tastes, there can be no end to needs. I, for instance, need not only food, clothing, shelter, but a dog, plenty of records, travel and about everything that two centuries ago a king could not afford. If each is supplied according to his needs, who can deny me fresh caviar on blini with Liebfraumilch as an appetizer? And if all of us ate caviar, would there be enough sturgeon to go around?

Some scientists wonder whether Mars is trying to get in touch with this planet. Perhaps Martians want to borrow a few billions to build more canals.

mountains—or save steel mills. The Follansbee spirit deserves to be emulated by many towns with lesser but persistent problems.

Theoretically, at least, seeding clouds may produce rainfall. But experimenters are going beyond that. Ways are claimed of preventing rainfall when too much has fallen.

This opens the vista to a possible pattern of "the government gives and the government takes away." It is not difficult to imagine citizens of a state that is "wrong" politically with their tongues hanging out until they yielded to the dominant political organization. The result would be a central government with powers derived not from the people but from the whims of the government itself.

RED HOGWASH

HISTORY revision by the Moscow reds has now been expanded to embrace fantasy. They're redoing Grimm's Fairy Tales to persuade children Western capitalists are the villains.

In the Grimm version Hansel and Gretel, poor children abandoned in the forest by a cruel stepmother, fell into the clutches of an old witch who fattened Hansel to eat him. Gretel lured her into a hot oven, locked the door and the old witch perished. The children escaped laden with riches from the witches hoard. They found their stepmother dead and they lived happily ever after.

The communist version identifies Hansel and Gretel as children of hard-working collective farmers who wandered into the capitalist West and were seized by the wife of a greedy capitalist. She presented them to her husband as slave laborers. They fled, pursued by the capitalists. Just as they were about to be captured, they were saved by red border guards.

Russian propagandists must strive to present the appearance of being busy to escape the firing squad, no doubt. But evidence is mounting that they are close to the end of their imaginative resources.

FOLLANSBEE SPIRIT

FOLLANSBEE, W. VA., like many another community, was face to face with a crisis but fought back. Perhaps the fact that extinction of the town was threatened was what spurred the populace into action. The town's steel mill, which provided employment for 1,000 men and was the town's main reason for existence, had been sold and was to be dismantled and moved to Alabama.

En masse, the town's inhabitants stood up and yelled—and went to court. The result was that a new buyer was found who has agreed to operate the plant for three years. Concurred civic action can move

Eye In The Sky Tells Plenty

--By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (UPI)—How effective is the military air camera today? Could you really detect a military buildup in another country through photo reconnaissance?

These questions have been raised by President Eisenhower's proposals at Geneva for the exchange of military blueprints and aerial inspection as "the gateway to a reduction in armaments."

Many government figures are hopeful the Russians will in time agree to the proposals.

The President's "open skies" plan is strikingly dramatized in an exhibit of photography now on display in the Carnegie International Center here.

It shows concretely how effective the camera has become as an eyewitness from the air. The exhibit, planned by a U. S. government interdepartmental committee, has impressed many UN delegates and other visitors.

Just what can photo reconnaissance do? The most impressive single display is a single strip of film 200 feet long and 9 inches wide. The strip maps an area of the United States 2,700 miles long and 490 miles wide from New York to Los Angeles.

The strip was filmed in 1948 from 40,000 feet up in less than four hours.

To the untrained spectator such a film reveals little. All he can pick out are mountains, cities, lakes, rivers and some roads.

But when sections of the film are enlarged and checked by trained photo interpretation experts with special instruments and new techniques, they reveal a very great deal.

Just how much?

"Suppose I lived in a house in that city," I said, pointing at the film. "What could you tell me about it—from 40,000 feet up?"

con staff officer and veteran flier. "We could tell pretty accurately the height of your house, what it was constructed of, and the relative age of your community."

"We could make a good guess on your own economic status. We could tell whether you used a rotary-type lawn mower to cut your grass, whether you had a telephone and an underground septic tank and probably even describe the clothes hanging on the line in your back yard."

"What if I had three tanks around the house camouflaged by covering them with old tree branches?" I asked.

"We could spot them with camouflage film," he said. "The live green grass would show up red on the film. The dead tree branches would show up a dull gray-green and they'd be easy to spot."

Isn't there any way to fool the aerial camera?

You sometimes can fool a lens, that's true," acknowledged Col. Steakley. "But it isn't easy to fool a good photo interpretation expert."

"On a large scale it would be very hard to do. You might be able to hide a small building. Sure. But not a whole complex of buildings, or a really big building of troops and installations."

An example of the speed of the aerial camera: A jet plane flying 500 miles an hour at low level was able to photograph and identify the cards in a poker hand laid out on an airport runway.

These Days

That the worker is entitled to his hire is an ancient adage. To live, we must receive wages according to some measure. In the most difficult beginning of the current capitalist era the law of supply and demand governed wages as it governed all economic processes. And a hard law it is.

Years ago, I wrote on this subject stating: "The only true measure of a worker's worth is his personal productivity." This is the general procedure in all industries in which time studies are made to determine the share of each worker in the production of a commodity.

There may be 10 or 100 or any number of workers to turn a screw or a cock or a wheel before the polished, finished product, appears for sale. Each one gets a share of the labor cost. However, this rule is elastic because minimums have been set for hourly wages and the labor unions make their own time studies.

In mass production industries, which may be regarded as semi-skilled, the worker more usually sells his time than his abilities. In highly-skilled industries, the worker sells his ability and training as well as his time. In unskilled industries, he sells only time. It is a very complex process for the determination of a just wage.

In the United States, as in no other country, the labor cost of a commodity is its principal cost, running in various industries from 60 to 80 percent. This not only means that the price is determined more by wages than by any other cost but also that the wages are kept high to maintain a high purchasing power. Every American worker is, in European or Asiatic terms, in the bourgeoisie rather than in the proletariat.

A reader wrote me several years ago in reply to the above quotation:

"In my opinion, this should read: 'The only true measure of a worker's worth is his personal need.' I feel that this is the only Christian way of looking at a worker's value to his employer. . . ."

This is a Marxist-Leninist definition of wages for the Communist period of the revolution which has not yet been achieved in Soviet Russia. The official "History of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union," a book which every member of the Communist Party in the world is required to read and believe, has this to say on the subject of wages:

"The economic foundation of the U.S.S.R. is the Socialist system of the economy and the Socialist ownership of the means of production. In the U.S.S.R. is realized the Socialist principle: 'From each according to his ability, to each according to his work.'

This is not Communism. Under Communism there would be no wages but each would be supplied according to his needs. After nearly 40 years, no Communist economy has come into existence anywhere in the world, not even in Soviet Russia, because no one can decide how to achieve distribution according to needs. What are needs?

What are anyone's needs? They are limitless. As one develops his tastes, there can be no end to needs. I, for instance, need not only food, clothing, shelter, but a dog, plenty of records, travel and about everything that two centuries ago a king could not afford. If each is supplied according to his needs, who can deny me fresh caviar on blini with Liebfraumilch as an appetizer? And if all of us ate caviar, would there be enough sturgeon to go around?

New Drug For Diarrhea

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

YOU never know where medical science might find a new drug.

Use of the carob, the fruit of the Mediterranean carob tree, for example, is proving extremely valuable in treating diarrhea. It's especially useful in aiding infants and children, relieving them of diarrhea in less than a single day.

Processed Flour

Manufactured under the name of Arbon, the new drug is made from specially processed carob flour and provides a high natural content of pectin, lignin and hemicellulose. These names mean little to you, but you will be interested in what the substances do.

Since they are water-binding, absorbent and demulcent, they form a gelatinous mass which is soothing to the inflamed areas, lessens discomfort and hastens recovery.

The carob flour also controls diarrhea.

Specific Medication

In mild cases of diarrhea, this may do the trick alone. In more severe cases, it may be used in conjunction with specific medication ordered by your doctor.

The powder is simple to take, does not interfere with appetites and is free from side reactions.

For infants, you can mix 2 to 4 level teaspoonsful to 4 fluid ounces of water or skim milk and feed in place of the regular formula for the first 24 to 48 hours.

For children and adults, stir 1 to 2 level tablespoonsfuls into one-half glass of water or milk and repeat in three to four hours.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

Mrs. W. E. F.: What are the symptoms of stomach cancer?

Answer: Cancer of the stomach may cause symptoms such as indigestion, occasional vomiting, sometimes diarrhea and later some abdominal discomforts.

As the condition progresses, there may be a great deal of vomiting with blood present. Blood in the bowel movements may be an early sign.

Whenever such a condition is suspected, immediate X-ray examination of the stomach is advisable.

A Mount Kisco Squire overheard a passel of very subtle girls playing "Apartment Hunting" on the back porch. One kid asked the girl who had assumed the landlady role, "How much is the apartment you've advertised?"

"Two, I'm afraid," said the applicant.

"Ah-hah!" clucked the landlady. "Can't have you as a tenant. Parents are too noisy and destructive. I don't want any part of them. Good day!"

Go Galivanting—and Cook by Casserole

As Great Aunt Mehitable used to say, "Autumn is the season when womenfolks go galivanting."

Truer than ever today! PTA meetings. Church groups. Or a full-time job. The list of time-taking projects is endless. And every evening, women all over the country dash breathlessly kitchenward; after hours of work, volunteer or otherwise.

A casserole. That's the first object of her attention—and affection. And oh what she can do with it. Plus a ham-type main dish — right out of a can. Such as pork and beans; spaghetti in tomato sauce; or macaroni with cheese sauce. Leave it to the clever cook to "dandy" these . . . like this:

Beans with Sausage-on-a-Stick
1 can (1½ cups) pork and beans
4 link sausage
Canned pineapple (rings or chunks)
Empty beans into 2 individual casseroles (of 1 larger). Cut each sausage into 3 chunks. Alternate sausage with pineapple chunks on skewers (about 4 or 5). Arrange these on top beans, pushing sausages down into beans. Bake at 400° F. for about 15 minutes. Makes 4 servings.

Spaghetti with Bacon-Pepper Twists
1 can (1½ cups) spaghetti in tomato sauce with cheese
1 green pepper
4 slices bacon

Empty spaghetti into 2 individual casseroles (or 1 larger). Cut green pepper into bite-size pieces. On a skewer, thread a slice of bacon, alternating it with green pepper chunks. This fills 4 skewers. Place 2 skewers atop each casserole, dunking them down into spaghetti. Bake at 400° F. for about 45 minutes, until bacon is crisp-brown and pepper tender. Makes 2 servings.

Historic Scottish Castle Ike Owns For Life Would Make Ideal Retreat

Part of Castle Culzean which President Eisenhower owns under life tenancy.

By FRANKLIN JOHNSON
Central Press Association
Correspondent

PRESTWICK, Scotland — When plans are discussed for ways and means whereby President Eisenhower can take time off at various retreats for rest and relaxation, his Scottish admirers dating back to World War II days hope that he will avail himself sometime soon of the historic castle he owns near here.

The President is the only foreign chief of state who has a permanent residence continually maintained for him in the British Isles, and so far as anyone knows he is the only chief of a foreign country who ever has been similarly endowed in British history.

It dates back to 1945, when as a tribute of the "esteem and gratitude" of the Scottish people, the main block of historic Culzean castle was deeded to him for his lifetime.

The 160-year-old Culzean is located on the Ayrshire coast, close to this transatlantic airport which would give the President an easy point of entry and departure by air.

LORD AILSA and Francis Lady Ailsa still live in one wing of the fortified residence, but strictly speaking they would be only neighbors and not hosts because Ike and Mamie Eisenhower own the chief part of the buildings and grounds in every sense of the word.

The Eisenhower part of the castle has separate access, and is fully furnished and permanently staffed for his use. It is maintained as though its owners might arrive just anytime.

A glance at the map will show pretty clearly where it is situated. Draw a line 30 miles southwest of Glasgow to Ayr and Prestwick on the Firth of Clyde and you can mark the spot. The stately old castle is on a hill commanding a beautiful view of the sea.

Lord Ailsa is the current representative of the Kennedy family which for generations has played a prominent role in the affairs of Scotland; and on occasions in the past let it be known that the fortifications of the castle were not intended merely for ornament.

As a military man, the former general undoubtedly finds of particular interest the ramparts and battery where Eighteenth Century cannon still stand poised with neat little piles of shot nearby.

THE ANCIENT tower which is the core of the castle has been a Kennedy stronghold for centuries. The castle has an armory full of interesting specimens of medieval weapons.

It has even been suggested that the Secret Service would be delighted with the facilities for protecting their No. 1 charge in the castle, once they got used to the occasional secret passageways and became acquainted with the inevitable ghosts which are said to populate all such venerable dwellings in the isles.

This is the capitol of the Kennedys all over the world who trace their ancestry to John Kennedy of Dunure who obtained Cassillis and other lands in Ayrshire about 1350. It includes an American branch of the family which succeeded to the earldom when the 10th Earl died unmarried. The Kennedy line became intermingled with royalty when Sir James Kennedy, John's descendant, married a daughter of King Robert III.

They were a warlike group and often took refuge in their tower when things got hot. A battle was fought near the site of their castle in the Sixteenth Century, and the son of the third Earl was killed.

FINANCIAL burdens of maintaining a castle in modern Scotland are heavy, and the Kennedys gave part of the buildings and grounds to the National Trust for Scotland, which in turn deeded it in life tenancy to the Eisenhowers as Ike's tour of duty in World War II ended.

Eisenhower accepted it with pleasure and announced that he would hold reunions there with soldiers and others with whom he had been closely associated during the war.

Ike did stay there in 1946 and found it so enjoyable that in 1951 he took Mrs. Eisenhower and her mother to Culzean (pronounced Cul-lane) for a week's holiday.

That was before other preoccupations, including a tenancy for years in another historic residence, the White House, intervened, and now his Scottish friends and neighbors wonder when he is going to come back.

stated for his use. It is maintained as though its owners might arrive just anytime.

That's why Ohio needs another reformatory as soon as it can get one built, says M. C. Koblenz, chief of the state division of correction.

He wants to build an $11,410,000 reformatory on land the state now owns near Lebanon in the populous southwestern Ohio area. His chief, Dr. John D. Porterfield, director of the department of mental hygiene and correction, recently presented the proposal to the new division of capitol planning.

That division will recommend to the Legislature projects to be built from the 150 million dollar building bond issue approved by the voters.

Koblenz has divided construction costs into three parts, with $3,900,000 listed for a start in 1956. This includes a million dollars for a power house and generator, $275,000 for a sewage treatment plant, $175,000 for a water treatment plant and wells, 1. millions for a food service area and equipment, $425,000 for an administration and hospital building and equipment and $400,000 for isolation and receiving cellblocks.

The second phase amounts to $4,800,000 and would include 2 millions for shops, school rooms, a chapel and gymnasium and auditorium, $250,000 for towers, fences and lighting and $2,550,000 for six cellblock units.

The $2,710,000 in construction remaining would build six more cellblocks, a garage and firehouse, roads drives and a parking area.

Koblenz submitted sketches of the proposed reformatory in his request to Dr. Porterfield. Gov. Frank J. Lausche approved the proposal along with others made by Dr. Porterfield.

The new reformatory, which would take three or four years to build, would house about 1,500 inmates. It would be across the road from the present Lebanon Honor Camp. Each prisoner would have his own cell, something not found now anywhere in Ohio.

"We're ready to go," says Koblenz. "There is a critical need for the new reformatory. When a court sentences a man to prison or a reformatory, we have to take him then and there. We can't put the man on a waiting list."

In backing up his proposal Koblenz said Ohio now has about 10,500 prisoners confined in space normally meant for about 7,500. At Ohio Penitentiary alone there are 5,000 prisoners in an institution having a normal capacity of about 2,400.

Overcrowding, Koblenz noted, was a "primary contributing factor" to the million dollar fire-riot at the pen three years ago.

The state still is working on the Marion Correctional Institution which, when finished, will house 1,500 prisoners. The proposed Lebanon reformatory, he says, will only enable Ohio to bring prison housing up to present needs.

"It does not allow for any continuing prison population gains in the three to four year period which construction and occupancy of a large penal institution would require," Koblenz says.

"Nor can we overlook the fact that prison population in Ohio recently reached a record high in times of high employment. Any serious reversal in the economic trend would play havoc with a state prison system's housing which, on the basis of the present case load, is inadequate."

Koblenz likes the Lebanon location, calls it an "ideal location."

"It is out in open country, has adequate communication and transportation facilities and has an agricultural program already developed at the honor camp," he says. "In addition, it is within a radius of 35 miles of Cincinnati, Dayton, Hamilton and Midletown."

Oil wells do not "gush." Their flow is carefully controlled to avoid waste.

Buckeye Trip To New Orleans Tops Cage Card

Ohio College Teams Scheduled For Light Program This Week

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Robin Freeman, the nation's No. 1 scorer, leads his Ohio State basketball teammates into New Orleans tonight for the headline attraction of the week's scanty program for Ohio teams.

Fresh from an 89-83 victory Saturday night that knocked the St. Louis Billikens out of the undefeated ranks, the resurgent Buckeyes will try to make it four straight victories against Cliff Wells' Tulane Greenies.

Ohio State has knocked off Loyola of Chicago, Oklahoma and St. Louis since dropping a 76-67 verdict to tough Vanderbilt in the Buckeyes' second game of the season.

Freeman's astounding shooting kept Ohio State out of reach as St. Louis staged a big comeback to move within three points of the Buckeyes. Robin finished the night with 39 points. He now has 186 points for a 37.2 average in five games. His average was tops among major collegians in the latest NCAA statistics.

Ohio will be heavily favored over Tulane in tonight's tussle. The Greenies have won three from small college foes, but dropped games to Rice and Texas A&M. Other contests involving Ohio teams are Cincinnati at Indiana, Georgetown (Ky.) at Xavier, Hillsdale (Mich.) at Bowling Green and Steubenville at Adelphi (N.Y.).

Tuesday's card finds Baldwin Wallace at Detroit and Otterbein at Lawrence Tech.

Dayton's unbeaten Flyers and undefeated Akron engage in mid-week tournaments. Dayton in the University of Kentucky Invitational at Lexington along with host Kentucky, Minnesota and Utah, and Akron in the Quantico, Va., tourney. Dayton meets Utah in Tuesday's opener.

Depauw plays at Cincinnati Wednesday night and Tippy Dye, former OSU coach, brings his rangy Washington team to Columbus Thursday night to wind up the pre-holiday fighting against Ohio State.

Tom Blackburn's Daytonians are showing opponents a tough defense as well as a potent offense. The Flyers have one of the state's best defensive teams, holding six opponents to a 53-point average. Xavier (3-0) leads the state with a 50.6 mark.

Three teams are averaging in the 90 points a game bracket. John Carroll, with four wins in five starts, leads with 93.6. Akron

Scioto Whips Watterson By 74-20 Score

Scioto's Buffaloes rumbled past Columbus Bishop Watterson High, 74-20, in a runaway game played at Watterson Saturday.

The Bishops, now in their first basketball season, just were no competition for the Buffaloes who held their hosts to only eight baskets and four free throws.

Scioto took a fast 21-3 first quarter lead which was upped to 35-12 at half-time. At the third quarter mark, the Buffaloes had a big 59-15 advantage.

High man for the evening was Delbert Neff with 22 points. Hamilton and Cameron shared scoring honors for Watterson, each garnering eight points.

THE win ups Scioto's season's total to 7-5. Scioto's reservists made the evening complete by downing the Bishops, 36-21.

is second with 91.8 and Ohio Northern third with an even 90. Otterbein has the flimflam defense. Four opponents have averaged 86 points a game. Fenn has permitted an 85.6 average in six games, and Ohio Wesleyan 84.6 in the same number.

Two Ohio teams fell from the unbeaten perch last week. Cincinnati succumbed to Dayton, 66-57, and Ashland lost to Findlay, 65-63.

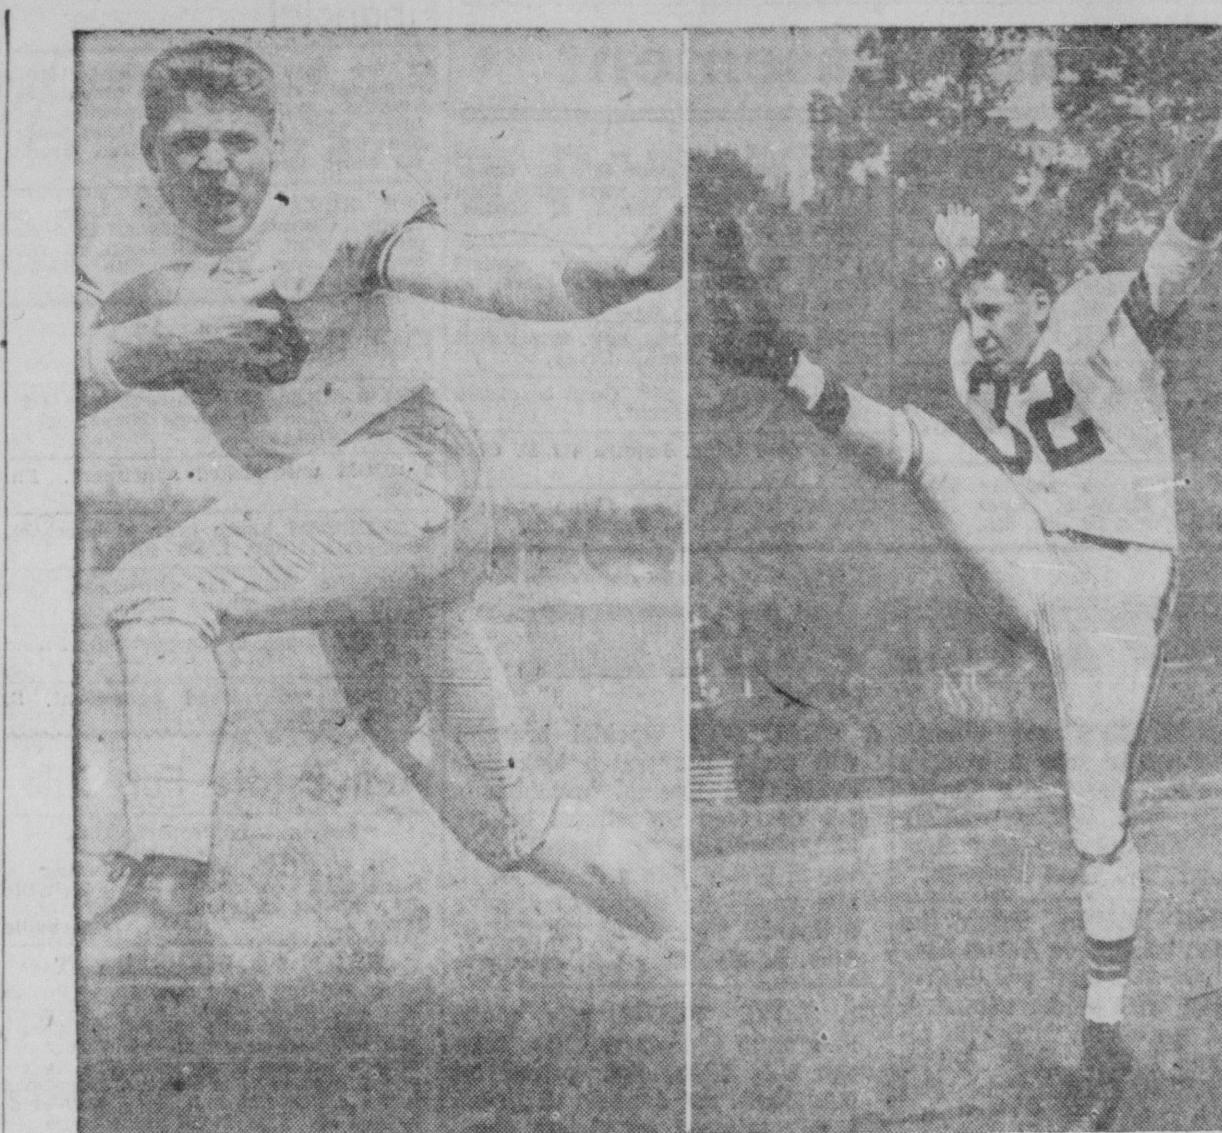

In a battle of tailenders, Fenn broke into the winner's circle with a 74-72 victory over Cedarville.

Toledo's 65-60 win over Miami gave the Rockets' first place in the Mid-American Conference with a 2-0 record.

Akron and Denison each have 3-0 marks to lead the sprawling Ohio Conference. Defiance has a 2-0 slate to head the Mid-Ohio League and John Carroll's 2-0 is tops in the new President's Conference.

Ohio teams have won 37 and lost 24 in interstate play and hold a 4,826 to 4,375 scoring edge. The home floor advantage shows up in the statistics, too, with host teams rolling up 90 victories and the visitors 39.

THOSE "MURDER" BOYS of the Browns, Curly Morrison and Ed Modzelewski, are grinding out yards at a rate which will make them the most productive one-two punch on the ground in the team's 10-year history. Weatherman Playing Havoc With Browns

CLEVELAND (AP) — Somewhere between sun and snow, in a limbo of too hot and too cold, the training plans of the Cleveland Browns have gone awry.

Judgment Day, when the Browns play the Rams in Los Angeles for the National Football League crown, is only a week away and the Browns figure the weatherman has been weighing the scales against them.

Cleveland Coach Paul Brown, because he felt too much California sunshine might sap the strength of his men had decided to give them most of their practice at home. Good, invigorating air would imbue the Browns with the proper spirit.

The result: The Browns have been mushing around in snow, wind and cold.

"Why, it was so cold last week that they couldn't even work up a sweat," Brown complained. "About all we could do was run around some. Now we must get going on the game preparations."

Giving the weather its due, Brown admitted that "we need some good workouts to get the boys loosened up."

He has only three more home practices scheduled before the Browns leave for the West Coast Saturday. The team will hold a regular workout in Pasadena Christmas Eve and a 20-minute session Christmas Day, the day before the game.

Pro Cage Power Showing In East NEW YORK (AP) — Any way you want to look at it, the power in the National Basketball Assn. appears to be in the eastern division.

The four clubs in the eastern half, Philadelphia, New York, Boston and Syracuse, show an aggregate of 47 victories against 34 defeats for a .580 average.

The quartet of western division teams, St. Louis, Rochester, Fort Wayne and Minneapolis, meanwhile, have 37 triumphs against 50 setbacks for .425.

is second with 91.8 and Ohio Northern third with an even 90.

Otterbein has the flimflam defense. Four opponents have averaged 86 points a game. Fenn has permitted an 85.6 average in six games, and Ohio Wesleyan 84.6 in the same number.

Two Ohio teams fell from the unbeaten perch last week. Cincinnati succumbed to Dayton, 66-57, and Ashland lost to Findlay, 65-63.

In a battle of tailenders, Fenn broke into the winner's circle with a 74-72 victory over Cedarville.

Toledo's 65-60 win over Miami gave the Rockets' first place in the Mid-American Conference with a 2-0 record.

Akron and Denison each have 3-0 marks to lead the sprawling Ohio Conference. Defiance has a 2-0 slate to head the Mid-Ohio League and John Carroll's 2-0 is tops in the new President's Conference.

Ohio teams have won 37 and lost 24 in interstate play and hold a 4,826 to 4,375 scoring edge. The home floor advantage shows up in the statistics, too, with host teams rolling up 90 victories and the visitors 39.

Redlegs Schedule Grapefruit Opener

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Redlegs will open their spring exhibition schedule against the Chicago White Sox March 10 at Lopez Field in Miami, Fla. The Reds carded for 35 more baseball games in the following 36 days.

John Murdough, traveling secretary of the club, released the schedule last night. The Reds will play 11 major league teams and one minor league squad, Indianapolis of the American Assn.

Reporting date for Cincinnati is March 1. It will be the 23rd year the club has trained in Tampa.

Pastrano Due To Take Shot At Rex Layne

NEW YORK (AP) — Willie Pastrano, a bright new face from New Orleans, meets his first "name" heavyweight tonight in Rex Layne, a hulking veteran who has fought them all from Rocky Marciano on down.

The New Orleans match should give a good line on Pastrano's ability to handle big men, Layne, at about 209 pounds, probably will outweight the home town boy by at least 25 pounds.

Pastrano mixed with middleweights and light heavies until he boxed Joe Rowan at Madison Square Garden Nov. 18.

Knockout or nothing is the prospect in St. Nicholas Arena here tonight when left-hooking Carmen Fiore of Brooklyn fights Gene Poirier, the ever-ready puncher from Niagara Falls, N. Y.

Du Mont will telecast.

Fiore, 26, came back from a one-year layoff to outpoint Rinzy Nocero Nov. 21. Poirier has taken a rest after a strenuous summer season when he won five of seven, most of them at St. Nick's. Fiore's record is 48-18-5 and Poirier's 13-

3-2 for 18 starts.

Buckeye Trip To New Orleans Tops Cage Card

Ohio College Teams Scheduled For Light Program This Week

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Robin Freeman, the nation's No. 1 scorer, leads his Ohio State basketball teammates into New Orleans tonight for the headline attraction of the week's scanty program for Ohio teams.

Fresh from an 89-83 victory Saturday night that knocked the St. Louis Billikens out of the undefeated ranks, the resurgent Buckeyes will try to make it four straight victories against Cliff Wells' Tulane Greenies.

Ohio State has knocked off Loyola of Chicago, Oklahoma and St. Louis since dropping a 76-67 verdict to tough Vanderbilt in the Buckeyes' second game of the season.

Freeman's astounding shooting kept Ohio State out of reach as St. Louis staged a big comeback to move within three points of the Buckeyes. Robin finished the night with 39 points. He now has 186 points for 37.2 average in five games. His average was tops among major collegians in the latest NCAA statistics.

Ohio will be heavily favored over Tulane in tonight's tussle. The Greenies have won three from small college foes, but dropped games to Rice and Texas A&M.

Other contests involving Ohio teams are Cincinnati at Indiana, Georgetown (Ky.) at Xavier, Hillsdale (Mich.) at Bowling Green and Steubenville at Adelphi (N.Y.).

Tuesday's card finds Baldwin Wallace at Detroit and Otterbein at Lawrence Tech.

Dayton's unbeaten Flyers and undefeated Akron engage in mid-week tournaments. Dayton in the University of Kentucky Invitational at Lexington along with host Kentucky, Minnesota and Utah, and Akron in the Quantico, Va., tourney. Dayton meets Utah in Tuesday's opener.

Pauw plays at Cincinnati Wednesday night and Tippy Dye, former OSU coach, brings his rangy Washington team to Columbus Thursday night to wind up the pre-holiday fighting against Ohio State.

Tom Blackburn's Daytonians are showing opponents a tough defense as well as a potent offense. The Flyers have one of the state's best defensive teams, holding six opponents to a 53-point average. Xavier (3-0) leads the state with a 50.6 mark.

Three teams are averaging in the 90 points a game bracket. John Carroll, with four wins in five starts, leads with 93.6. Akron is second with 91.8 and Ohio Northern third with an even 90.

Otterbein has the flimsiest defense. Four opponents have averaged 86 points a game. Fenn has permitted an 85.6 average in six games, and Ohio Wesleyan 84.6 in the same number.

Scioto Whips Watterson By 74-20 Score

Scioto's Buffaloes rumbled past Columbus Bishop Watterson High, 74-20, in a runaway game played at Watterson Saturday.

The Bishops, now in their first basketball season, just were no competition for the Buffaloes who held their hosts to only eight baskets and four free throws.

Scioto took a fast 21-3 first quarter lead which was upped to 35-12 at half-time. At the third quarter mark, the Buffaloes had a big 59-15 advantage.

High man for the evening was Delbert Neff with 22 points. Hamilton and Cameron shared scoring honors for Watterson, each garnering eight points.

THE win ups Scioto's season's total to 7-5.

Scioto's reservists made the evening complete by downing the Bishops, 36-21.

Judgment Day, when the Browns play the Rams in Los Angeles for the National Football League crown, is only a week away and the Browns figure the weatherman has been weighing the scales against them.

Cleveland Coach Paul Brown, because he felt too much California sunshine might sap the strength of his men had decided to give them most of their practice at home. Good, invigorating air would imbue the Browns with the proper spirit.

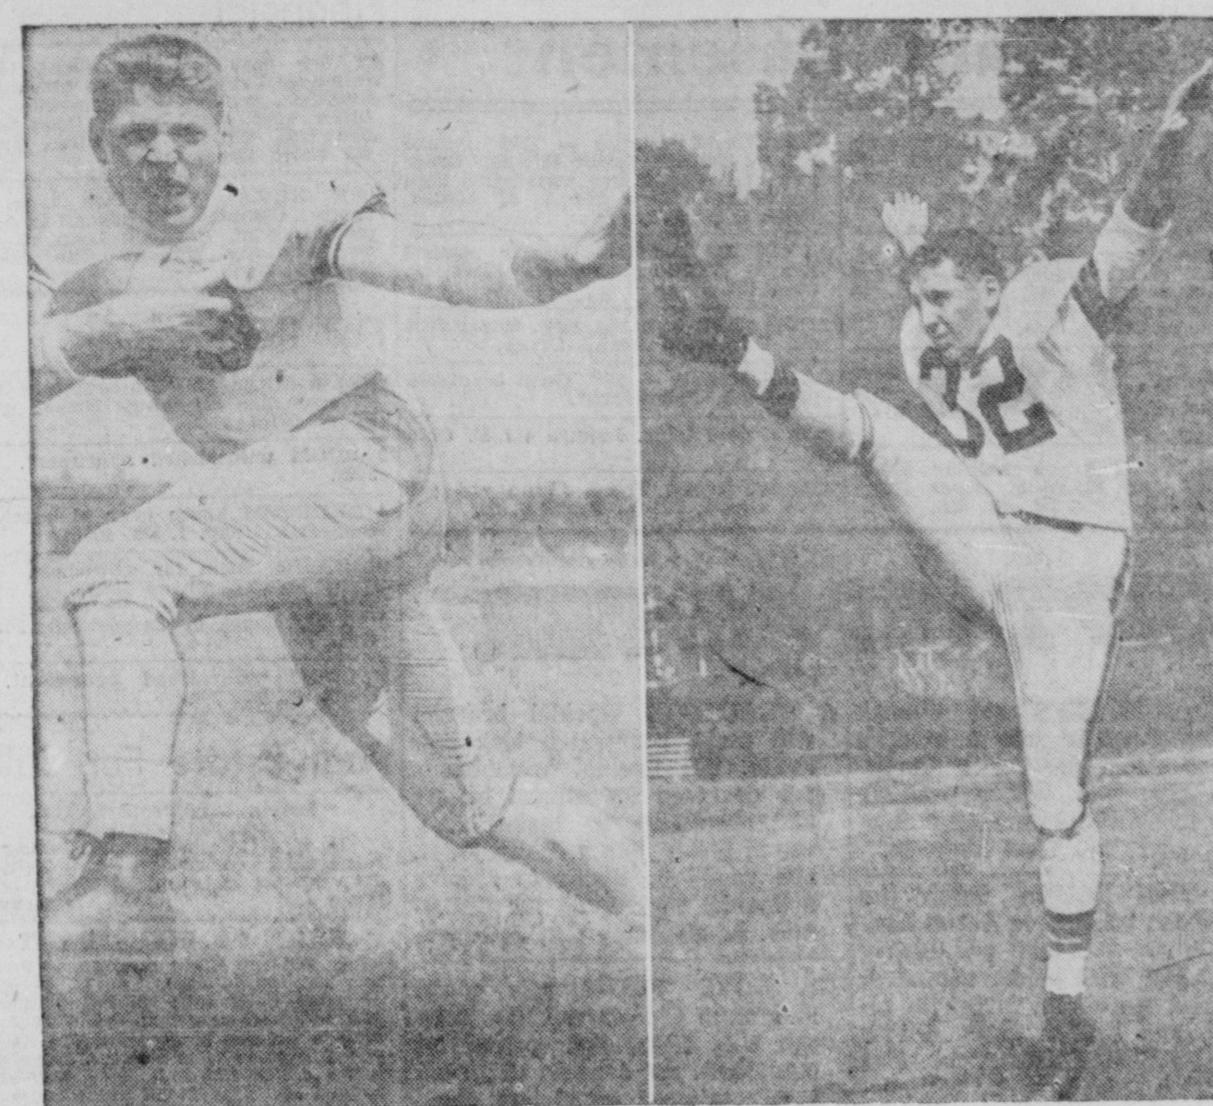

The result: The Browns have been mushing around in snow, wind and cold.

"Why, it was so cold last week that they couldn't even work up a sweat," Brown complained. "About all we could do was run around some. Now we must get going on the game preparations."

Giving the weather its due, Brown admitted that "we need some good workouts to get the boys loosened up."

Weatherman Playing Havoc With Browns

CLEVELAND (AP) — Somewhere between sun and snow, in a limbo of too hot and too cold, the training plans of the Cleveland Browns have gone awry.

Dons Chalk Up Victory No. 31, Say They Don't Expect To Lose

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The University of San Francisco, a team that "does not expect to lose," won't have to flex its muscles until next week in the Holiday Basketball Festival Tournament at Madison Square Garden.

The Dons have built up a string of 31 straight victories, and, with their two games this week, should be sporting a streak of 33 in a row when they reach the Garden Saturday.

The top of the weekly Associated Press poll probably will undergo some scrambling. Except for the Dons, North Carolina State (which trounced West Virginia, 92-71 for No. 19 in the row) and Utah (which decided Washington State 91-56), the big boys have been having trouble.

Iowa, Alabama and Duquesne, Nos. 4, 5 and 6, all have tasted defeat during the week. 'Bama and the Dukes, in fact, are twice defeated.

Meanwhile, another tournament gets under way tonight in Charlotte, N.C.—the Charlotte Invitational. Eight teams are entered with the opening pairing sending Boston University against Tennessee, Davidson against Colgate, and Wake Forest against Mississippi State.

Tuesday night, they play Wichita and on Friday take on Loyola of New Orleans. Neither should pose a problem.

But they could have trouble in the Holiday Festival. They're paired with Tom Gola-less La Salle

Browns' Cagers Seeking Contests

The Cleveland Browns, champions in professional football, have organized a basketball team again and are seeking exhibition games.

They feature such names as: Maurice Bassett, Don Colo, Bob Gain, Curly Morrison, Horace Gil-lom, Tommy James, Chuck Noll, Dante Lavelli, Mike McCormack, Dick Modzelewski, Pete Perini, George Ratterman, Sam Palumbo, Warren Lahr and others.

The Browns always put on a fine show. Anyone interested should contact Herm Downard Sports Preamotions, P.O. Box 243, Massillon.

If any games are scheduled by local teams, they are asked to notify The Herald sports department.

Lillard Collects Star Kegler Prize

CHICAGO (F)—Bill Lillard reigns today as winner, by a scant eight pins, of the coveted National All-Star Bowling Tournament championship in the closest finish in the meet's 15-year-history.

Lillard, 28-year-old Chicagoan, turned the trick last night by nosing out veteran Joe Wilman.

Lillard took the championship by .08 Petersen points, or eight pins with a 303.30 point total to Wilman's 330.22.

Another windup squeeze saw Anita Cantaline, 28, Detroit bowling instructor, take the women's crown by edging Doris Porter of Los Angeles, 144.40 Petersen points to 144.13, or 27 pins.

Teams Reminded To Call In Results

County League teams, when playing non-league opponents, are again reminded to call in scores to the Herald office (Phones 580 or 581) the morning after the game by 8:30.

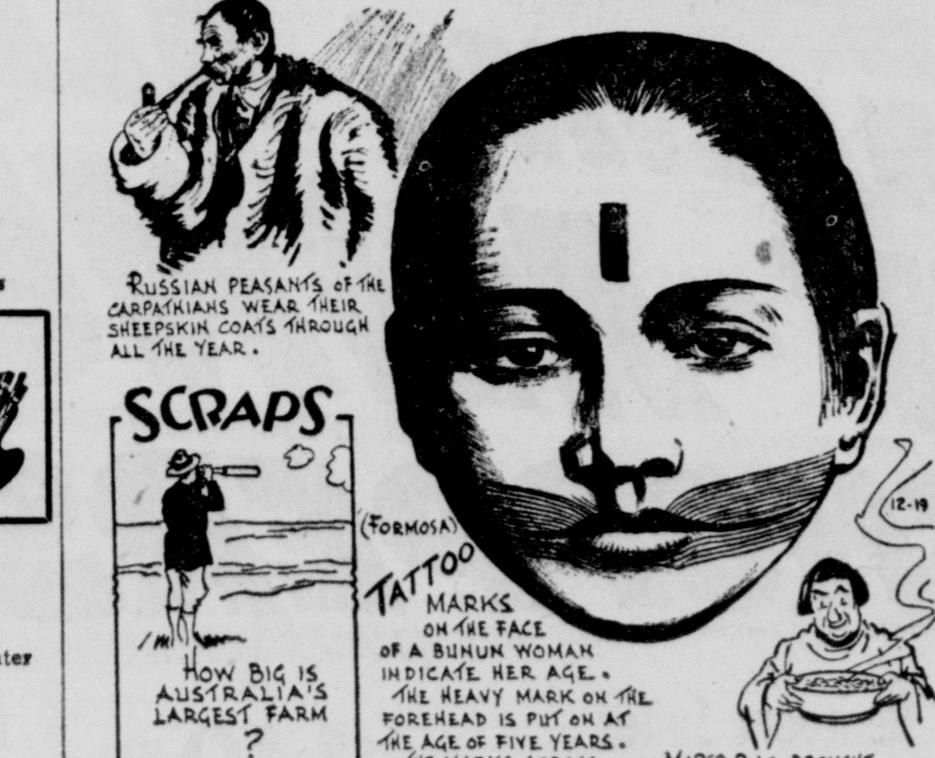

As has been the custom, league results are to be phoned in the night of the games anytime after 10:15.

Local Girl Tells Of Thrills At 4-H Congress

Zoe Dell Riggan Won Trip By Club Activities

1955 State Champion In Canning Tells Of Chicago Welcome

A Circleville girl, holding Ohio state honors in the 4-H cannning program for 1955, told today how her participation in the national 4-H Club Congress this year made a long-held dream come true.

The account was written by Miss Zoe Dell Riggan of 214 W. Corwin St., one of the 29 4-H members who represented the Buckeye State at the national gathering. During the last two of her eight years in 4-H club activity, Miss Riggan canned 182 jars of fruits and vegetables, winning first place each year.

She has been president, secretary and junior leader of her club, led by W. D. Purdin.

Reflecting the keen interest of all 4-H members in their work, and stressing in particular the friendly atmosphere that added to the thrills of the national rally, Miss Riggan wrote about "The Time of My Life" as follows:

In the years to come I have a true fairy storm dream to tell my children and grandchildren. The story is about my trip to the 1955 National 4-H Club Congress to Chicago, November 26 to December 2.

I had fond hopes and worked toward this goal when I first joined a club eight years ago. My hopes were realized when I was notified that I had won state honors and would receive a trip, expenses paid, to Chicago.

My dream truly began when I boarded the train in Columbus with a special coach for 4-H'ers of Ohio. This made it possible to become well acquainted before we reached Chicago. This was my first real trip to a really large city which provided a week of unending excitement and inspiration.

WE WENT directly to the Conrad Hilton Hotel which is the largest and friendliest in the world. When I stepped into the hotel it was like being in fairyland. The beauty and immensity of the grand ball room, dressed in aqua velvet and gold with huge magnificant chandeliers, was breath taking. During the soul inspiring church services held in this beautiful room on Sunday morning, I felt so proud, yet humble, to be one of the 1,200 (or more) boys and girls gathered to represent more than 2,100,000 4-H members in the United States, Alaska, Hawaii, and Puerto Rico.

Here was some of the "cream of the crop" of youth, with all denominations represented, worshipping together. When we sang America and the spot light was on our beautiful American flag, I felt as never before there must be freedom for the world.

The same day in the afternoon, Dr. Bradley spoke to us and he gave the best address I have ever heard. He gave us much food for thought and responsibility when he left us with the words, "The Future Is Yours, Do Not Destroy It!"

Everything planned for us was a "high spot". It was simply magic that a city as large as Chicago, which plays host to the most famous people the world over, would radiate such hospitality and treat us girls and boys like visiting royalty.

It was a great satisfaction to have men as famous as Thomas E. Wilson, and many others, to take time to entertain and talk to us. They left us with the feeling we were wanted and needed now and in years to come. These great people look forward to 4-H Congress as a high light each year.

I was very impressed by the friendliness of all donor representatives, celebrities who entertained us, directors and employees of the hotel and by the citizens of Chicago. Those who planned our entertainment paid us a high compliment when they arranged for us to hear a concert by the Chicago Symphony Orchestra. I truly appreciated hearing such great artists.

OTHER NEVER - to - be - forgotten memories are the educational museum of Science and Industry and the Chicago Museum of Natural History. Also the visit to Marshall Fields, the 4-H parade at the International Livestock Exposition and the tour of the city.

I feel I can never say thank you enough to the sponsors who contributed so generously and lavishly for the best of entertainment, gifts and souvenirs, breakfasts, luncheons, and banquets during that wonderful week.

I also wish to express my deepest appreciation to all in my community who have spent the years in helping me build my record toward this dream. Among the tops are Mrs. Leora Sayre of the extension staff, my advisor of this year, Mrs. Purdin, my mother who served as my advisor the rest of my club years, my father who thought my club work very important and to the state staff who considered my record worthy of a state award in canning.

If in the next few years, I can interest other youth to join 4-H and persuade members to continue reaching for higher goals and can make more young people see the value of club work for improving family and community living, then maybe all who have been responsible for my never to be forgotten dream will know my sincerity of "Thank You."

Ohio Reds' Trial Slated To Resume

CLEVELAND (AP) — Following a one-week recess, the Smith Act trial of 11 accused Ohio Communist leaders is to resume today with the government's final witness on the stand.

The witness is John Lautner, a former Red leader in the East. The trial here was recessed while he testified at a similar trial in the East. He is an expert witness on Communist doctrines.
